Principal's Message

This year, we have once again weathered the pandemic, but the situation has gradually stabilized. Students are able to go to school happily as usual and play with their classmates. Whenever we go to school, everyone greets each other politely. Even though we all wear masks, we can still recognize each other. This shows that we have established good relationships in our school family.

In order to provide diverse learning experiences for our children, our school has arranged various visit activities, including science museums, supermarkets, and Brighter Smiles Playland. This increases the opportunities for children to go out and learn outside the classroom, and at the same time, enhances their interest in learning. In addition, our school also places great emphasis on children's physical development. Through regular jump rope classes, children not only exercise their body coordination but also improve their cooperation skills, thereby building team spirit. This year, our school has also organized various parent-child activities to promote parent-child relationships through home-school cooperation. Our school has added a "Parent Corner" on the school website to welcome parents to browse and deepen their understanding of the school.

I would like to sincerely thank all parents for their love and trust in our school. We will continue to work hard to create a beautiful learning environment and let our children enjoy a happy and fulfilling kindergarten life.

Chin Yan Ming
PN (AM)

Yan Ming looks forward to the arrival of school bus every day because he really likes going to school. When school started in September this year, Yan Ming was only two and a half years old and didn't know much. One day, he sang the ABC song to us at home, which he learnt from school. Looking at his happy face, we know that he likes to sing and play with his teachers and classmates. Yan Ming and his father also participated in the egg tart making workshop held by the Church. They enjoyed the fun of parent-child cooking very much. Under the caring of the teachers and the company of classmates, Yan Ming's language and self-care abilities have also been significantly improved. He is growing and improving day by day in the big family of the school. We are all grateful to the school for giving the children unlimited care and encouragement.

I am a working parent of a child in the PN class. At first, I was worried that the child would not be able to adapt to school life, but now I am very grateful that he can enter the school by himself, and the adaptation time is shorter than expected. It is all thanks to the teacher's patient care and teaching. Through close communication with the teacher, I can know the progress of the child at school. I would like to give special thanks to his class teacher for teaching my child according to his needs. I also thank all the teachers and principal. Every time I pick my child up at the school entrance, I can see their kind smiles and call the children's name. I feel that the school attaches great importance to and cares for all children.

Thank you Ms. Fan for sharing Tung-tung's school life from time to time, which made us feel more at ease as parents. At the same time, I also thank the principal and teachers for their commitment in teaching, helping Tung-tung to gradually grow up independently! Now Tung-tung will take the initiative to go to bed by herself, and in her spare time, she will play the role of a teacher and teach us to read, write, sing and even dance. I was particularly impressed by the lyrics of one of the songs the teacher taught in the class: "...Pick up the toys, I'm the best, I've grown up." Tung-tung sang this with cute movements such as a Thumbs up, with a little smile of confidence on her face. What's even rarer is that she will take the responsibility of "cleaning up toys". This is a task she would never have done before. It shows how influential the teachers are. We are so grateful to the teacher for their patience so that Tung-tung can truly enjoy her childhood, making her first step in learning, and getting along with others. It helps her experience a variety of new things that are very beneficial.

My daughter, Nga-tung, is studying K1 this year. After school started in September, my daughter has made progress in all aspects. Firstly, her attention span. Originally, my daughter had no patience and could not "sit still" while doing homework. Now, she knows how to keep her feet on the ground, sit well and do her homework. Secondly, she learnt how to control a pen with the "first three-finger grip". After the teacher patiently taught the child the correct way to hold the pen, my daughter's interest in drawing increased significantly. When filling in the colors, she would say: "Ms. Chan taught me not to color out of bounds". She has gone from only knowing how to doodle, to being able to use simple lines to draw. In addition, her language skills have improved. Every morning, when she enters the school, she will take the initiative to say "Good morning!" to the teachers, and also say "HELLO!" to her peers. Thanks to the school team for patiently teaching and caring for the students. In the pleasant learning environment of the school, the children's motivation to learn is greatly improved, and the children are helped to gradually achieve their goals.

Julius Frommann
K1 (WD)

For Juli it got much easier to say goodbye to us and leave for school in the mornings since he developed the feeling of being welcome and safe with his teachers and classmates. Building that feeling of trust in the little ones' hearts is a big challenge that Juli's teachers mastered amazingly well and therefore fast. Although we are very happy with Juli's progress in using his speech - he usually copies not only teachers' phrases but also how they sound when saying those ;-)- we especially appreciate the teachers' work for creating an extraordinarily caring environment, for increasing his self confidence and for getting along with his classmates. The teachers' creation of a sheltered, warm and colourful get-together that Juli feels comfortable in and encouraged to try out new things and... „just“ to grow in... makes his school so very special to our family.

In a blink of an eye, Chak-chak has been in school for more than two months. During these two months, I am very grateful to St. Peter's Church Kindergarten for taking care of and educating him. I feel that the kindergarten is a place where young children live happily, and it is also a place where children are treated sincerely. One thing about the kindergarten that touched me very much was that the principal and teachers really cared about the children. They only met two or three times during the interview, but on the first day of school, the principal and teachers already recognized him and remembered his name. And when I usually pick up Chak-chak from school, I feel the conscientiousness of Ms. Fan. Every feedback given has let me know about Chak-chak's school life, and also shared some discipline and teaching methods with me. I have gained a lot from the school. I also feel that Chak-chak likes his kindergarten life very much. When he returns home, he often share school activities with us and has made good friends. I am very pleased that Chak-chak has improved a lot since he entered school.

Chan Ka Chun
K1 (AM)

Thanks to the Principal, Ms. Chan, all the teachers, and the janitor staff, for providing a happy campus and helping Ka-chun enjoy the school life very much. She has learned a lot of new things and made many good friends in just a few months since the beginning of school. She shares so much with us after school every day. Sometimes she imitates Ms. Chan's teaching; sometimes she performs morning exercises for us and she always sings for us too. In one of the songs, at the end she says - "I have grown up!" As parents, we were all very moved when we heard it, especially watching her really grow up gradually. All the above can reflect the dedication of the teachers. I hope that all the teachers will continue to work hard and make persistent efforts so that each of our babies can learn more and every child can thrive.

I am the parent of Chun-hei, and I would like to express my gratitude to the principal and teachers. When Chun-hei first joined PN class, he yelled at the school gate and refused to enter. The principal and all the teachers called his name every day, and they comforted and hugged him patiently, which gave Chun-hei a sense of belonging and respect for the school, along with a sense of security. Now in K1, he likes going to school every day, thanks to the care of the principal and all the teachers. With the help of the teachers, Chun-hei overcame his fear of slides, and the uneasiness of changing environments. He also learned to obey the rules, improved his self-care ability, and gradually became willing to express himself completely. Thank you, Ms. Lau, the class teacher of PN, and Ms. Chan, the current class teacher of K1, who are always willing to spend time communicating with parents, and do their best to help each students. Thanks once again to every teacher and staff member of the school, your love for children means that they grow up healthy and strong in a warm and comfortable environment. Finally, I am very grateful for all of your selfless dedication and contribution to the students.

Lee Long Kiu
K2 (AM)

Time flies, Long Kiu has been attending St. Peter's Church Kindergarten for three years, from class N to K2. We would like to express our gratitude to the principal and teachers for their love, dedication, and teaching. Long Kiu loves learning and making good friends in this nurturing environment, which has added a lot of color to Long Kiu's life. We sincerely thank all the teachers and staff for their selfless dedication, which has helped Long Kiu to continue growing and progressing in their learning.

I am deeply grateful to the kindergarten teachers for their care and education of the children. Throughout our children's time in kindergarten, the teachers have shown great concern for their growth and development, providing them with ample support and encouragement in their learning. They carefully attend to the children's daily habits and communicate with us regularly to discuss how we can work together to help the children progress.

In our interactions with the teachers, we have been impressed by their enthusiasm and professionalism. They are always willing to spend time communicating with parents and gaining a better understanding of the children's needs, which allows them to provide even better care. They are also deeply invested in the children's learning progress, offering valuable advice and support to help them master new knowledge and skills. Additionally, the teachers prioritize the safety and health of the children, demonstrating a great deal of care in all aspects of their work.

The school's activities have also been a source of great satisfaction for us. The kindergarten frequently holds open days, workshops, and parent meetings, which not only enable us to better understand our children's learning, but also allow the children to experience joy and happiness in their school environment. Furthermore, the school organizes many extracurricular and community activities, such as visiting dental clinics and hosting lectures on social knowledge, such as fire safety and fencing. These activities help to deepen the children's personal interests, and cultivate their teamwork and social skills.

We are deeply grateful for all that the teachers at the kindergarten have done for our children. Their dedication and care have allowed us to send our children to school with peace of mind, knowing that they are receiving the best care and education. We will continue to support the school's work, and we believe that our children's future will be bright.

Finally, my wife and I are especially grateful to the school for accommodating our request to re-enroll our child in the morning class of K3 for the next school year. We know that this required a great deal of effort on the school's part, and we are truly appreciative of their hard work and dedication. The three of us are very grateful to the kindergarten.

In one word: love. Paige was transferred from another kindergarten to St. Peter's Church Kindergarten three years ago. She was timid and afraid of getting into trouble, unwilling to try new things, and didn't enjoy playing with her peers. She even avoided playing on the favorite slides and rides and made many excuses to evade them. When Covid hit, it deprived children of the opportunity to attend physical classes. However, the school arranged online classes five days a week, and the teachers worked tirelessly to ensure that the little ones continued to learn. After returning to school, Paige gradually opened up her heart with the encouragement of the principal and teachers. She became more courageous, willing to try new things, and showed great improvement in her social skills.

I truly admire Principal Miss Chan, who led the teachers to bravely move St. Peter's Church Kindergarten forward. She is willing to listen to and accept the opinions of parents and has worked to improve some previous imperfections. The efforts of the principal, teachers, and staff have created a campus that feels like home and is full of love. Through parent activities such as parent-child workshops and serving as a parent volunteer, I have gained a better understanding of Paige's campus life, and have become more involved. In the blink of an eye, three years have passed, and the immature seedlings have grown up! They will move on to larger gardens to continue to thrive. Thanks to the careful cultivation and recommendation of the principal and teachers, Paige was successfully admitted to St. Paul's Co-educational College Primary School. I would like to express my gratitude to St. Peter's Church Kindergarten once again for their love and care.

I would like to express my heartfelt thanks to the entire school for taking care of Ming Yin and providing him with a happy kindergarten life. Before transferring to St. Peter's Church Kindergarten, he never talked about his campus life, but now he loves sharing the details of his day every night. He talks about toilet training at school, happy conversations with Miss Rainbow, Miss Kwan, Miss Chan, and Principal Miss Chan. I am grateful that Ming Yin was able to study at St. Peter's Church Kindergarten from PN to K3.

Lok Lok is about to graduate from K3 soon, and his younger sister is also preparing to study in K2. I am delighted to be a part of the big family of St. Peter's Church Kindergarten. All the teachers in this school are excellent; they are polite and take care of the children's needs. As parents, we know that character building, self-care, moral values, and social skills are essential for our children's growth. The school not only offers many activities but also places great emphasis on academics. Additionally, students in full-day classes rave about the delicious school menu.

In conclusion, I hope that every child who studies at St. Peter's Church Kindergarten will grow up happy and healthy.

St Peter's is a wonderful kindergarten with amazing teachers and supportive staff. My son joyfully prepares for school each morning and sometimes asks me to pick him up late. He always speaks positively about his teachers and the school aunties. My child is very confident and determined. I'm grateful that his teachers have supported his personality and character development. He is aware of his abilities and areas he needs to develop, and always tells me what he needs to work on and how he intends on achieving his goals.

He approaches his school work with a growth mindset, he wants to know more, he wants to experiment and understand even when he has no idea how to do it, he is optimistic that he will find a way. I believe his teachers model this attitude and teach children that a little effort, practice and determination will help them achieve their goals. I'm grateful that the teachers at St Peter's Church Kindergarten have cared for my son lovingly. My son started attending school at St Peter's as a native English-speaking child. We do not speak any Chinese at home yet, in the space of a few months, he started using Chinese with his friends. I believe he is on the path to being fully bilingual because of the dedication of his teachers. Lately, he plays at home by himself in Chinese and switches between the two languages naturally when playing with friends. He helps us translate when we are in places where Chinese is the only language spoken, and he always tries to read Chinese characters. Chinese is his favorite subject.

The school plans activities in advance and notifies parents in time to allow parents to plan accordingly. Teachers update us on what children are doing and how parents can support children to reach their potential. There's a lot of transparency and trust. As my son grows, so will the seeds of kindness, love and empathy planted by his teachers. Thank you for all you do! May you always be blessed and blissful.

Yi Wing has been studying at St. Peter's Church Kindergarten since Nursery Class. Initially, she was very reserved and lacked confidence, and she struggled to communicate with others. We were all very worried, but fortunately, the teachers were caring and patient, and they guided her every step of the way. In addition to the school's regular teaching, there were also extracurricular activities and games held by Miss Rainbow, which helped Yi Wing to gradually become more cheerful, lively, and brave. We are grateful to all the teachers, but we would like to give a special thank you to Miss Fan for her love and patience with Yi Wing. Thanks to her care, Yi Wing has made significant improvements in K2 and is now willing to express her needs. We would also like to thank Miss Lu for her teaching. Yi Wing has learned many new words and principles from her.

Although Yi Wing is still nervous and shy when facing new people, she really enjoys going to school and loves the school, teachers, and classmates. We are grateful to the school for providing Yi Wing with a nurturing environment to grow and learn.

The amount of love and passion this school's teachers have is really admirable. If there is one word that I can use to describe them it is— Compassionate. They are very compassionate towards the kids and they truly show how great they are not only as teachers but as individuals. Their care and love for the kids show through their work. My child always tells me how much fun he had during his time in school. That testament gives me so much happiness because as a mother, I only want what's best for my kids and their happiness is my happiness. I also truly appreciate how approachable the teachers are. They can be contacted easily and that gives me peace at home because I can easily contact them and ask about what my child is doing and also how he is in school.

The school's activities are also very lovely that not only can my child have fun, but we can also join as a family and fill out our memory box with happy moments — moments that my children will always remember and bring wherever they go. I am truly one of the lucky ones because I know my child is in good hands in school. I am truly thankful for the teachers love for the kids and their passion at work, it is truly admirable.

This is Sum Yi's last year at St. Peter's Church Kindergarten. Due to Covid, she was unable to attend school from PN to K1. However, the teachers arranged Zoom classes every day to ensure that the children did not get bored and could continue to enjoy the school atmosphere. The kindergarten is constantly innovating and patiently improving children's learning. Every teacher, janitor, and principal in the school is patient, caring, and treats each child seriously. The teachers also share our children's school life with us, so we can know what they have improved on and what we need to be aware of. We are very grateful that Sum Yi has grown with care and love in this kindergarten. Thank you very much.

I am Karlie's mother. Before we knew it, the K3 semester has come to an end. Looking back to when Karlie started attending the preparatory class, she needed more sense of security and would cry for school during the first three months. Her Chinese listening and expression were more difficult, but it is a common experience for many children. I am grateful for Teacher Liu's attentive care and the self-care skills Karlie learned at school. Although she transferred to another school in K1, she returned to St. Peter's Church Kindergarten in K2 because we felt that it was full of love. Every morning, Principal Chan, Teacher Chan, and the teachers greet parents and students at the school gate, which creates a friendly atmosphere and makes us feel at home. Karlie's K2 homeroom teacher was Teacher Fan, and I appreciate her gentle speech and thoughtful explanations. When the pandemic struck, there were fewer physical classes and group activities.

In K3, the class resumed regular learning, and there were more outdoor activities. Karlie was most looking forward to visiting the Traffic Safety City and going on the graduation trip to Ocean Park. Karlie has grown up, and her current homeroom teacher, Teacher Lu, is more cautious about the children's behavior. She points out when Karlie does something wrong and corrects it quickly. Teacher Lu often says that Karlie does not need to worry because she can follow the teacher's instructions and help other classmates, which reassures me as a mother. Karlie had the opportunity to participate in the Happy Little Bee Team activities and learned to be a diligent, polite, caring, and loving child.

Finally, I would like to thank Principal Chan, all the teachers, and the school staff for their attentive care. Karlie has grown up happily and joyfully at school, which is a school full of love. Let us continue to pass on education with love. Thank you, teachers.
